

GoGirl Racing Alaska

Annita was accepted into the Lyn St. James Driver Development Program!!

www.lynstjames.com

Lyn St. James has created this program to help other women excel in Professional Motorsports. Having done it the hard way herself she brings lots of background and insight for the lucky few who are selected each year for this program. This program covers all aspects of professional motorsport from mental and physical prep as well as the business of racing and of course honing their driving and race team skills. The program was developed for young women that are interested in racing as a career. This year they accepted 26 girls into the program out of hundreds of applications. I believe Annita is the 1st Alaskan to be invited. There are girls from ages 10 to 25 from as far away as Sweden, Jamaica & Philippines as well as across the lower 48 making for a very diverse group of race car drivers.

Annita's first session was held November 16th - 18th in Phoenix at the Athletes Performance facility (all I can say about the location is WOW!). This session covered the mental and physical testing/training areas. Then she goes back two more times depending on how she completes each session. Jacques Dallaire Ph.D. of Performance Prime (www.performanceprime.com) was the speaker and trainer for this session. He had a lot of good information which I believe Annita is still trying to process. It's like a lifestyle change in the way she thinks and the approach to physical training. She has lots of homework to do between sessions and for the rest of her racing career.

BREAKING NEWS:

Annita has been invited to the next session which will take place in Indianapolis Feb 29th-Mar 2nd this session will be covering sponsors, media and the business of Racing. The session after this one, if she's invited back, will be the driving and chassis set up, tentatively scheduled for mid-June.

We are taking any Air Mileage donation we can get to help cover the expense of fulfilling her dream of Professional Racing. Remember if she achieves her dreams maybe she can get you tickets to either Daytona or Indy.

New for 2008 Season

GoGirlRacing has purchased Annita's next race car. But until she's ready to move up (ok, until we're ready for her to move up) to the new class. Kurt will be racing the new car in 2008 and working out any kinks. This will allow him to be a better crew chief for her (at least that's what he's saying) and get off the pit wall and back into a race car for awhile. Annita will get to be dad's race spotter which should give her some insight for working radio's and race strategy from the pit wall for a change, but she will get to drive on the practice laps in order to get used to the car. Maybe a race before the end of 2008.

The new car is a "Baby Grand" which is basically a 5/8 scale stockcar powered by a 1250cc Yamaha motorcycle engine producing about 135hp which gets the 1500# Baby Grand moving pretty quick (www.babygrandracing.com). But first we must get the new paint job and remove the old car# (we are not Tony Stewart fans nor are we supporter of his sponsor). So look for new graphics and colors by this spring.
